Consumer Notes:

There are quite a few titles this month that people have been asking about ... perhaps most notably Key the Metal Idol and Leda: the Fantastic Adventure of Yohko. Kitty Media (Media Blasters) releases their first title this month with Orchid Emblem (a fairly adult release, even by adult anime standards. If you enjoy adult product, you might also want to consider the cels ... they are also available), and there are more Sailor Moon tapes shipping this month as well.

Still, the thing that most people are probably going to ask about are the AD

Vision T-shirts. While they're priced a bit higher than most shirts, they are printed on both the front and back and are very cool, so we can just about expect them to sell themselves. Finally, if you enjoy the CDRom Linear Movie format, Venus 5 is now available.

JEFF'S PICK(S) OF THE MONTH

At the risk of sounding disingenuous, I have to go with Leda: The Fantastic Adventure of Yohko this month (even though it's one of our own titles). Rarely seen today, this is a Inomata designed film with some wonderful production values. Also, I'd say that Key: The Metal Idol is a very good product with some interesting character design which has the same potential downside as Leda. Both these film are a bit

Shojo (aimed more at girls), but VIZ has demonstrated with "Gospel of One Pound" and "Maison Ikkoku" that this is not necessarily a bad thing. Also, those T-Shirts are really cool.
